UK reseller channel gets tough wireless handsets

St Albans, UK, 17 March 2010: ICON is pleased to announce that the new Polycom KIRK extra tough and specialised handsets are now available to its Channel Partners.

The new Polycom KIRK 6000 series and KIRK 7000 series handsets with the ICON value added package of services included are available to order only from ICON.

The KIRK 6000 series IP64 rated handsets are strong enough to withstand the rigours of a manufacturing workplace but stylish enough to be used in any hardworking environment where a tough robust stylish handset is required. The handsets are built to be shock and drop proof and include a ruggedised display and strong keyboard. There are two handsets in the range, the KIRK 6020 and the KIRK 6040. The KIRK 6040 is equipped with Bluetooth.

The KIRK 7020 is IP54 rated and designed particularly for healthcare and nursing home use but its ruggedised build and industrial protection rating means that it will perform well in other similar hard working environments where a robust stylish handset is required.

Mark Shane sales manager at ICON commented,

“These handsets are the ultimate solution for hardworking environments where a tough handset is a must. They are tough enough to be used in a factory environment but stylish enough for the office.”

The 6000 and 7000 series follow the styling of the 5000 series but offer some very useful additional features for the manufacturing and healthcare sectors. For example the KIRK 7010 is a disinfectant resistant handset and the KIRK 6040 is ready to integrate with alarm applications and is equipped with a tear off string”

For dealers interested in learning more about the advantages of installing a mobility solution using these handsets ICON offers one to one product familiarisation and basic sales and installation instruction through its nationwide network of account managers.
